

Grounded for Good: 10 Years of GTECH

APRIL 21, 2017 | HEINZ HISTORY CENTER

In 2007, GTECH Strategies spun out of research at the Heinz College of Public Policy at Carnegie Mellon University and has grown into an internationally acclaimed, high impact organization that transforms vacant, underutilized spaces into thriving places everyone can enjoy.

In homage to 10 years of impact on the ground - and celebration of the next 10 years of growth - we invite you to join GTECH at The Heinz History Center as the anchor to your 2017 Earth Day festivities for this one time only special event to recognize the organization's contributions to Southwestern PA communities. Enjoy fine food, spirits, and a curated history of GTECH's evolution, and welcome GTECH's new Executive Director, Evaine K. Sing while saying farewell to Founder and former CEO, Andrew Butcher.

Sponsors will be prominently featured as an integral component of GTECH's success in the community development and environmental health sectors among hundreds of friends, partners, and supporters.

This is a unique, one time opportunity and we would love to showcase your organization with one of the identified sponsorship levels.

"As GTECH looks forward to the next ten years, our commitment to growing the many collaborations that have underpinned our first decade of achieving lasting community benefits will continue. GTECH greatly appreciates that it indeed takes a village"

- Court Gould, Sustainable Pittsburgh and GTECH Board Chair
